

"X" RAYS CAN BE HEARD.

Edison's Latest Experiments with the New Force.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Criticism of Thomas A. Edison's claim that the "X" rays are a form of sound waves have led the inventor to make further experiments to prove the theory. He has both seen and heard the sound waves, one of his visual proofs being as follows:

A plate of steel one-eighth of an inch thick and 24 feet square is set up in a frame so as to bring the center on a line with the fluorescent bulb. When the light is turned on and the fluorescent bulb is held close to the center, no light can be seen, but when the fluorescent bulb is moved along the back of the plate, about an inch or two from the surface and out toward the edge, the rays of light or sound appear on the surface of the fluorescent bulb.

The sound wave strikes the surface of the plate and diffuses itself over it. The waves radiate from the bulb in all directions. They strike the edge of the steel, turn right around the edge and run to a central point. That is possible only because the sound wave is many times slower than light. But one of the clinchers of the "wizard's" contention is that the sound waves can not only be seen but heard as well.

With a phonograph receiver Mr. Edison's assistants heard the sound waves around the edge of the screen. As they approached the edge the sounds became more distinct. When they moved the free end of the tube to the center of the sheet, they could hear nothing, but close to the edges they could hear it, at the same points where they could be detected with the fluorescent bulb. And when Mr. Edison told of that he added: "But I have made some experiments that are better than that."

RAIN BLACK AS INK.

Hail, Too, and Wind Wreak Destruction at Dexter.

DEXTER, Mo., April 22.—The most severe hail and wind storm which has ever struck this section prevailed here yesterday afternoon and last night. In some parts of the county hail as large as bird eggs fell, and in places it was in piles from four to six inches deep. Fruit was beaten from the trees and early vegetables were destroyed. The wind uprooted trees, unroofed outhouses and blew down fences north of here. A curious phenomenon of the storm was that the water which fell in places was inky black.
